DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on June 10, 2005 has been considered by the examiner.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-3 and 5-9 are allowed. The following is a supplemental examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Regarding claim 1, the prior art does not teach that plural insertion portions alternately contact the first wall and the second wall of the slot. Umeda (US '918) Fig. 1 and Korean Patent 1998-87306 Fig. 1 appear to show insertion portions alternately contacting first and second walls of the slot; however, there is nothing in the description describing this feature, and neither is it clear from Fig. 1 that the insertion portions actually contact the first and second walls. Rather, the description teaches away from this because Umeda states that the wire of winding 33 in Fig. 1 "has a diameter greater than the width of the inner openings of the slots" (first embodiment, c.6, lines 9-11; see also c.2, lines 35-37 and c.3, lines 14-16). This means each wire inserted into the slot would contact both side walls of the slot. Later Umeda does refer to a "first alternator" of the prior-art "in which the width of the inner openings of slots is greater than the diameter of a wire forming a winding" (c.6, lines 50-52). However, no further teaching or suggestion is made regarding whether or not this wire contacts the slots walls, and if so, in what manner.

Regarding claim 8, the prior art does not teach or suggest U-shaped conductor segments each having a first insertion portion, a second insertion portion, and a turn portion, with variability in distance between the first and second insertion portions by resilient deformation of the turn portion, and that the first and second insertion portions contact one of the first and second walls by spring back of the resilient deformation.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
